Hurley won by 6 wickets!

This week's match report is written in the style of a chav/posh 15 year old girl's diary...

So basically, Hurley totally had a game with Southall Dragons on Sunday and it was like, super fun! Winning is awesome!! Hurley totes won the crucial toss and made Southall do a bat. Cudworth and Brackstone, who are well buff, opened the bowling and OMG did they bowl well using the majorly weird conditions to frustrate the Dragons batsman and claim some super important early wickets.

Only Kewar (43) showed any resistance and as Adams frustrated him with like, crazy accurate bowling, R. Simon destroyed his stumps with a ridic delivery in front of everyone. He must have been soooo embarrassed, LOL. More good bowling from Masters, who was getting bare swing and Hooper, who jooked a cheeky victim meant the Dragons were bowled out for a hangin 121. A fab performance despite our catching being well dred.

After a well heavy tea, particularly J. Simon's bare dry sandwiches Hurley set about getting the butters target.

P. Hinnell Snr and 'The Vag', both in lush form, opened the batting. After a cautious start The Vag rinsed some sweet backfoot cuts and drives as they pushed the score into the 40's. The TM was then owned by a buff delivery that cleaned him up. This brought debutante Vern to the crease and he smashed a peng shot through midwicket before getting jacked by a late swinging delivery to leave Hurley 47-2.

Off the hook captain Hooper, playing the most fo sho cricket of his life, came in next and got the scoring rate ticking along with some well safe shots. The Vag was bowled, as was J. Simon in a brief innings that featured a sick sweep!

That brought Hinnell Jnr to the crease and after a jokes start he and captain Hooper vexed the opposition, whose catching was making me LMAO, with an array of quick singles and wicked boundaries to seal the win <3.

Wagwaan Hurley, back to winning ways, sweet innit!

Sixes – None, Catches listed.

Man of the Match – Tom Hooper, Runner Up Adam Brackstone.
